“Preventing Pool Installation Pitfalls”

Presenters: Terry Brannon, P.E., Brannon Aquatics International LLC
Bob Sheely, Texas Regional Production Manager, Drees Custom Homes

Terry Brannon, P.E.’s experience spans 50 years in the engineering and aquatics industries. In addition to subject matter expertise, he has been teaching adult education for more than 10 years with GENESIS®, the educational arm of the Pool & Hot Tub Alliance and has been a professional presenter throughout his career. A licensed professional engineer in Texas and 22 other states, Terry has spent the bulk of his career in South Texas and has been involved in the design and construction of aquatic facilities, public fountains, splash pads, water parks, competition venues, lakes and streams, and private pools.

Bob Sheely has been with Drees Custom Homes for over 25 years and has held several positions, as a builder, construction manager, and warranty manager in the Dallas/Ft. Worth area. Bob currently serves as production manager overseeing the Texas Region, consisting of Drees’ Dallas, Austin and Houston divisions. As one of the builder-trainers company-wide, Bob is responsible for guiding newly hired employees that have been recruited through Drees’ Builder Trainee Program. This program helps bridge the gap from college to homebuilder. For the past several years he has had the honor to serve on a Collin County Community College’s committee that has oversight for their two-year associates degree in Construction Science and is actively involved as a member of the board for developing and implementing the construction curriculum.
