“Partners in Homebuilding: Couples who are Teams in Marriage and Business”

Join us for this informative and very entertaining session from two husband and wife design/build teams. They will share with you the challenges they faced while learning to work as partners in business, as well as the joys that come from working together to help clients build their dream homes. From working from stock architectural plans to customizing an idea written on a Kleenex, these couples have learned to “get inside the heads” of their clients so that their selections and, ultimately the completed project, will reflect their style. Communication with the client is key but, most importantly, a sense of humor goes a long way when you work with your spouse!
